

New Correctional Facility for Women Construction Update for April 17, 2017.

We have completed construction weeks #53, #54, #55 and #56 of the new NH Correctional Facility for Women in Concord.

The Wellness and medium custody areas are being closed in, and the upper mezzanine has been welded in place along with the large window frames that will be installed today (pic below). The last six exterior concrete panels went into place this week and the need for large cranes on site has come to an end.

On April 19th we will welcome on site the NH State Council of the Arts program group. This program takes a unique approach to the acquisition of artwork by creating a "Site Selection Committee" where planners, architects, state employees, art professionals and private citizens collaborate in the selection, commissioning, or purchasing of works of art by artists and craftspeople on large state projects. Once they have decided what type of artwork will fit best in the new facility, more information will follow. The project remains on schedule and within budget.
